Etiquette of the Table. The daintiest way to eat an orange is from a fork; that is, the skin and its coarse white lining are pared off with a sharp fruit knife, the orange is stuck on a fork and is eaten exactly as one would an apple, writes Ruth Ashmore in her "Side Talks With Girls" in the September Ladtes' Home Journal. Cheese may be taken between the fingers, or it may be put on a bit of bread with a knife, and it. Artichokes, of course, eaten with the fingers, each leaf being dipped in the dressing.

All pastry is eaten from a fork, and it s an insult to the cook to touch it with a knife. In fact, your knife has no use ex cept for cutting or buttering something, and when it is resting it should be laid sideways on your plate. Every vegetable can be eaten with a tork, the uses of a spoon being limited to a few desserts and still going on. There have been very for your coffee or teacup, and there its few additions as yet, but large crowds are place is to repose in the saucer. Boull place is to repose in the saucer. Nothing excuses the chasing of a small particle of something to eat around your plate to polish it up. The old idea that one must eat everything that is given to one no longer exists, and the result is that children are not made gluttons. In drinking remember to hold your goblet or wine glass by the stem, and not by the bowl. While watermelon is eaten with a fork, canteloupe has served with it a dessert spoon. As it is customary nowadays to have the salt served in open salt cellars, it may be mentioned that in helping one's self the salt should be put near the outer edge of one's plate. In leaving the table, it is not necessary to fold your napkin; instead, just as you rise lay it on

A WARNING.

An Indianapolis Minister Says the Cholers Epidemic is a Sign of the Near Approach of Christ's Second Coming.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 19.-Rev. Dr. Jencks, of this city, in a published interview, declared his belief that the tholera epidemie now sweeping over the world is a warning of the near approach of Christ's second coming.

"I believe this plague has been sent to warn us," said he, "and awaken us to a perception of the prophecies in the Rible concerning the fearful phenomena that are to precede His coming.

Dr. Jencks declares the world is much more wicked than it was twelve months ago, and as time rolls on the world will become more and more debased. From this time on plagues, war and famine are to multiply, and the minds of mortal will be astounded by the violence of these convulsions. peculiar religious views of Dr. Jeneks has attracted the attention of religious world heretofore. the For nearly twenty-five years he was rector of St. Paul's church, of Indianapolis, which place he filled with distinguished credit. A year ago he commenced a series of sermons to show that the day of judgment would come within the next ten years, his position being fortified by prophecy and history. A number of parishioners who objected to this summary winding up of muneaten on that, but a fork is not used with dane affairs signified their disapproval of their rector's views, and his resignation was presented and accepted. Dr. Jencks is confident of an early vindication of his theories.

None were sick but, as Dr. Baker says, it shows carelessness somewhere that is startling. He also says that there is a disposition at Baltimore to get immigrants landing there out of the city as soon as possible.

Dr. Probst sent the telegram to the B. & O. management severely criticising its carelessness in handling these immigrants without certificates. He also notified Cleveland and Cincinnati that some of these 300 immigrants are destined for those cities.

Dr. Probst sent a telegram to all railway managers Saturday morning notifying them that, beginning Sunday, no immigrants will be allowed to enter Ohio without certificates. He also telegraphed all inspectors to go to work Sunday morning, instructions having been mailed.

Superintendent Fitzgerald, of the B. & O., has ordered all conductors to at once detach from trains any car in which a case of suspicious illness occurs, while approching Washington, and to notify the health officer. This is to prevent spreading cholera through the G. A. R. encampment at Washington.

WIFE MURDER.

Dan Bunker, a Cincinnati Ash Cart Driver, Brains His Wife With a Hatchet.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 19. - Jealousy caused Dan Bunker, a city ash cart driver to murder his wife shortly after noon Saturday. Bunker and his wife did not live together for some time. Saturday he went | clerk. down to her late residence, 729 West Sixth street. He accused her of infidelity and a quarrel followed. Bunker struck his wife with his fist, and then catching up a shatchet struck her over the head and face six or seven times. The cries of the woman in her attempts to elude his murderous rage attracted the police. The poor dying woman was placed in a patrol wagon and removed to the City hospital, where she died soon after. Bunker, meanwhile, was taken to central station and locked up. When the news of the woman's death reached police headquarters. the murderer was at once notified. With a gleam of cruel exultation on his stolid features, he said: "Is that so? Well, I'm glad of it."

THE CINCINNATI.

The Machinery of the New Cruiser De stroyed by Fire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.-There was a disastrous fire at the navy yard in Brooklyn. It broke out at 3:15 o'clock Saturday morning in the three-story wooden extension of the machine shop. In this extension was stored the machinery of the new cruiser Cincinnati. It was totally destroyed. The flames extended to the two-story brick machine shop and caused much damage. The loss is roughly estimated at half a million dollars. The flames rapidly spread from the machine shop extension to the main building, which was destroyed. The Cincinnati's machinery will be practically useless. It had been entirev finished and had been tested with satisfactory results. The vessel was to have been launched October 26.

G. A. R. TRAIN WRECKED.

Four Passengers Injured. Two of Them Fatally.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 19.-A sad accident occurred on the Lehigh Valley railroad near Fairview Saturday morning. The passenger train leaving Wilkesbarre at 7:20 a. m. and carrying 400 passengers, most of whom were G. A. R. veterans, bound for Washington, collided with a switch engine at a curve. Both lo comotives were badly wrecked. The baggage and first passenger car were piled on top of the passenger engine. Strange to say most of the passengers in the car escaped unhurt. Four of them were injured, two fatally. Andrew Brown, engineer of the passenger train, was pinned under the wreck, and will die from injuries received. All traffic on the road is delayed.

Jenkins Says He Will Use Force. QUARANTINE, N. Y., Sept. 19.-The steamer Cepheus left quarantine Saturday morning and went down the bay to transfer passengers from Wyoming to Fire Island. PECK ARRESTED Charged With Garbling New York Labor Statistics.

Imprisonment Crime.

The Charge of the National Democratic Committee-Peck Furnishes Rail, Also Mr. Rogers, His Ste ographer, Who Was Arrested Along With Him.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Charles F. Peck, the commissioner of the state bureau of labor statistics, and his stenographer, Elbert Rogers, were arrested Friday night, charged with destroying public documents, a crime punishable by imprisonment for not more than five years nor less than one.

The records alleged destroyed by Peck are returns of New York manufacturers, which he is claimed to have suppressed in order to avoid making a damaging showing of the effect of the McKinley bill in New York.

President Harrison quoted from the alleged false statistics in his letter of acceptance to demonstrate the prosperity in New York state resultant from the tariff bill. Peck's prosecutors are a committee appointed by the national democratic committee, comprising Hon. Nelson Smith, J. Schoenhof, E. Ellery Anderson and Edward F. McSweeney. They called upon Peck for details as to the formulation of his report, but he refused to enlighten them. Among the persons subpænaed are William Denison, janiter of the private house in which Peck and Rodgers have rooms; a servant girl, who has charge of Peck's room, and Miss Schaeffer, a

The committee claims that Denison will testify that he burned the documents for Peck for which service he was Charles F. Peck was in court Saturday morning, accompanied by his sten-ographer, Elbert Rodgers, both of whom are under arrrest charged with destroying public documents.

The complainant is William Henry Denison, the janitor of the building in which Peck and his stenographer have rooms, and the prosecution alleges that the documents were carried from the capitol to the room on Sunday evening last and destroyed by burning in the furnace.

E. J. Meegan, the well-known criminal lawyer, appeared for the defendants, and Hon. Norton Chase, who represents E. Ellery Anderson in the civil case now before the supreme court, in reference to the privacy of the documents, appeared for the prosecution. When the defendants were arraigned Meegan asked for an adjournment on two grounds:

First, because he had not the time to prepare a case for his client, and, second from the fact that the civil case now before Judge Fursman will practically decide whether or not the restriction on such papers would be a felony.

Chase opposed the adjournment, but Judge Guttmann decided that it was in order on the latter grounds, for if that case was decided in favor of Peck there would be no necessity of continuing further with the proceedings.

The case was therefore adjourned until Thursday, September 29. The supreme court case comes up on September 27. Peck and Mr. Rodgers each furnished $1000 bail. Peck is reticent on the subject, but says he will fight to the bitter end.
